Rick
Cannon

Rick Cannon is an accomplished woodturner who has lived in Memphis since 1968. He works with local or imported woods and sometimes bone or antler.

After time with notable woodturners such as Michael Mode, Malcolm Tibbetts, Ray Key, David Marks and others, most of his works involve time at the lathe, but he also uses any of the tools associated with a carpenter's shop.

He has been a maker, learner and teacher of fine craft and art for the last 20 years.

Rick has won merit awards at the Pink Palace Arts in the Park and participated in the Best of Tennessee Craft Exhibition twice. His work is in a permanent collection of the Tennessee State Museum, and he has demonstrated with the River Arts Association for five years to promote the craft of woodturning.

Rick is a member of Tennessee Craft—Southwest, the Memphis Arts Collective, the Mid-South Woodturners Guild and the American Association of Woodturners.
