Guidelines for Active Chapters

Active chapters provide programming and communication at the local level to meet Tennessee Craft’s mission to continue and create Tennessee’s fine craft tradition.

All active chapters must abide by the following policies:

1. Active status for a chapter of Tennessee Craft in any one of the Developmental Districts of the State of Tennessee (established by the General Assembly under the Tennessee Development District Act of 1965) may be sought by petition in writing to the Tennessee Craft Governing Board, signed by at least five (5) interested individuals. There shall be no more than one chapter in each of the nine Developmental Districts, except by special permission of the Governing Board.

2. On approval, the new chapter will adopt bylaws based on the chapter bylaws form provided by the organization and elect a minimum of three (3) officers including at least one chapter president and one chapter representative to serve on Tennessee Craft’s Governing Board. The remaining officer(s) are composed at the discretion of each chapter.

3. One chapter representative will be elected for a two-year term of office, providing representation to the Governing Board from the active chapter. Chapter representatives take office on January 1; they may be elected to that office for more than two consecutive terms per chapter bylaws and chapter board approval.

4. As the Governing Board develops statewide committees, chapters will be asked and expected to provide representation from their region.

5. To retain active status, chapters will provide at least four programs a year (including at least three meetings and at least one event/activity) and communications to their members (meeting notifications and/or newsletters) a minimum of four times a year.

6. As members living within the designated counties of an active chapter join or renew, the state office will notify the chapter treasurers, sending a rebate for the dues paid by those members. Current rebates have a value of $6 for students, $10 for individuals and $15 for joint memberships.

7. Each chapter will develop an annual budget and send a copy and any later revisions to the Tennessee Craft state office to have on file for the Finance Committee. Monthly financial reports shall be made by chapter treasurers in a timely manner, using forms available from the state office. Copies of bank statements of all chapter checking and savings accounts shall be included.

8. Tennessee Craft’s tax ID number shall be used on all chapter checking and savings bank accounts and the signature of Tennessee Craft’s executive director must be included on all bank signature cards (forward to Tennessee Craft state office for signature). Active chapters may have the use of Tennessee Craft’s sales-tax exempt number for appropriate purchases. (These numbers are available from the state office).

9. The active chapter is fully responsible to Tennessee Craft, its parent organization, financially and otherwise, and all activities must be in accordance with the stated goals and purposes of Tennessee Craft, and in no way jeopardize Tennessee Craft’s nonprofit status.

Failure to abide by the above policies will result in the disbandment of a chapter by the Tennessee Craft state office.
Responsibilities for Active Chapters

Tennessee Craft provides its chapters:

Failure to abide by the above policies will result in the disbandment of a chapter by the Tennessee Craft state office.

Chapter Financial Management

All chapter activities are expected to be in accord with Tennessee Craft’s stated goals and purposes and in no way jeopardize Tennessee Craft’s tax-exempt status as a 501(c)(3) organization. Please consult the executive director regarding any questions you may have throughout the year and when setting up new accounts.

ANNUAL BUDGET
At the start of each year, chapters shall develop an annual budget and send a copy and any later revisions to the Tennessee Craft state office to be on file for the Finance Committee.

MONTHLY FINANCIAL REPORT
By the 10th of each month, chapter treasurers shall submit a monthly financial report—preferably as a single PDF—to the executive director for the preceding month (e.g., January report is due on February 10). It is recommended that treasurers keep a separate record of reports for any and all income and expenses related to a specific event; it is helpful to see and understand all the costs associated with each event.

Monthly financial reports shall include:
1. Bank statement
2. Transaction register (with receipts on file and available for review, if requested)
   a. List all transactions made during the month.
   b. Assign class and account numbers to each transaction (see Chart of Accounts).
      i. If a transaction applies to more than one category, list the amount and account number on a separate line for each category.
   c. List all voided check numbers as VOID (account #999).
   d. List checks in the month they were written, not the month they cleared the bank.

FEDERAL COMPLIANCE
In order for Tennessee Craft to maintain its tax-exempt status, we must comply with record-keeping practices that are in alignment with federal law and GAAP (Generally Accepted Accounting Principles). To claim tax exempt status, we have to be able to prove what we are paying for is related to our business and in compliance with federal tax law, and thus exempt from income and sales taxes.

All revenue and expenses must be documented with a receipt that includes information clearly identifying the source of the income or the expense, creating an audit trail. This practice protects volunteer chapter leaders in the event of an audit. All checks written should have an invoice or receipt for support and all should be filed and maintained. In the case of payments made to artists, chapters should receive documentation from vendor or artist so there is justification for the payment being made. Bank statements will show a payment, but without documentation, there is no way to substantiate the expense as a business expense. For example, payments to artists participating in the Emerging Makers Tent or chapter booth should have paperwork or a digital document that lists the sales amounts, a total, then any deductions for commissions or fees paid, etc., and a paid amount that matches the check amount. The date, artist name, and mailing address should be recorded.
If the amount paid for services is equal to or larger than $600, you will also need to secure the individual’s or non-corporate organization’s federal tax identification number (social security or EIN#). You must also complete and submit a W-9 form to Tennessee Craft. W-9 forms can be downloaded online at irs.gov/pub/irs-pdf/fw9.pdf. The Tennessee Craft state office will issue all 1099s at year end.

IMPORTANT TAX INFORMATION

- Tax I.D. number to use on all checking and savings account: #23-7309306.
  NOTE: Tennessee Craft’s executive director’s signature must be included on all bank signature cards (please forward cards to state office for signature).
- Tennessee Craft’s (TACA) sales tax exemption number: #100093347
- For chapter-sponsored sales events, research and contact your regional office of the Tennessee Department of Revenue to request a Special Event Sales Tax Form and request instructions on remitting the completed form and collected taxes.
- For individual artists who have a sales tax account with the Tennessee Dept of Revenue who sell at Tennessee Craft Fairs, Tennessee Craft’s research has shown that sales of artwork, as tangible items, are taxable and that there is a threshold under which taxes on artwork sales are not due. It is the individual artist’s responsibility to understand their sales tax duty and to claim sales revenue and pay sales tax accordingly.

Because Tennessee Craft regularly holds special events that generate sales, when we collect sales tax for those sales we become responsible for remitting those taxes. For Tennessee Craft sponsored-events, we provide Special Event Sales Tax Forms to artists juried into our bi-annual craft fairs, or instructions on how to obtain and complete one, with the assistance of the Nashville Tax Enforcement Division of the TN Dept of Revenue.

For individual artists seeking information on their tax responsibility, refer to the TN Department of Revenue rules and resources on their website here. For artists whose sales meet the threshold, sales tax payments are due periodically. As an organization, it’s not our role to offer tax advice to individual artists, so if you believe you may be required to submit periodic tax payments, refer to these rules, confer with fellow artists about their experiences and/or seek the advisement of a tax professional.

CASH HANDLING

Petty Cash: A chapter may establish an imprest petty cash fund which is not in a bank account, comprised of funds of a fixed amount used for making small expenditures that are paid in cash, and is subject to a maximum authorized balance of $100.00. Imprest accounts are reimbursed up to the authorized balance as expenditures are made from the account. Funds are replenished upon submission of expenditure receipts to the chapter treasurer. Petty cash funds on hand plus expenditure receipts should total to the authorized amount of the account. The chapter must designate a petty cash custodian to disburse small amounts and to document each payment with a petty cash receipt. Imprest petty cash funds may be subject to internal and external audit.

Cash Receipts: Chapter officers may receive cash on behalf of the chapter in conducting its operations, as exhibition sales revenue, fee payments or donations. All cash should be documented with a written receipt when transferred from one party to another and should be deposited in the chapter bank account no later than two weeks (14 calendar days) following receipt of cash funds.

Succession Planning

What is succession planning?
Every organization needs to have a succession plan to prepare for when leadership positions become vacant. A succession plan is just a plan that outlines what happens if your president, chapter representative or anyone in your leadership team were to leave their position. The plan should include who the replacement could be, what sort of information and resources need to be handed off, and any other useful information from the outgoing officer. Having a plan ensures that your chapter remains stable and that key information is available even if an officer were to leave tomorrow. The benefits of having a succession plan include:

- Continuity during a time of transition,
- Security among members that when the time comes, the next generation of leaders will step up to the job, and
- Transfer of key information and best practices from an outgoing leader to an incoming leader.

How do you create a plan?

I. Cultivate Potential Replacements
   It’s important to begin looking for your replacement early on. The earlier you identify the next group of leaders, the more time you have to build relationships and begin transferring knowledge of the role.

II. Communicate Processes
    After you’ve started to build relationships, begin communicating the processes of your job. If you’re the secretary, share how often you send out meeting notices and what other duties you’re responsible for.

III. Delegate Tasks
    Once you’ve communicated processes, begin to delegate some tasks to your prospective replacement. Ask them to send out the minutes for you one month or to take minutes at the next meeting.

IV. Thank and Credit
    After your prospective replacement has completed a task that you’ve delegated, be sure to thank and credit him or her for a job well done. The more encouraged and supported a person feels about a job, the more likely they are to do it again.
Clarifying Aims and Purposes
Meeting aims or purposes should be at the top of every agenda. These are the key decisions that must be made or actions that must occur at the meeting. If you aren’t clear on aims and purposes, don’t meet. Everything else on the agenda—topics, times, presenters—are the activities that, taken together, will accomplish the aims.

One way to clarify aims is to ask oneself, "Imagine the meeting is over. What do I hope will have happened?" When the agenda activities and time allocations have been decided, ask "If we complete these agenda activities, will we have accomplished our overall aims? Additions or adjustments in the agenda may be required.

Creating an Agenda
The agenda is the framework that supports the meeting. Agendas have been compared to road maps, blueprints, flight plans, recipes and musical scores. These all suggest that the agenda helps a group achieve a desired outcome.

To help ensure that all important issues are addressed, the agenda should be created with input of chapter officers. If you cannot meet with your chapter officers in person or on Zoom before the meeting, work via email to collect and discuss items to include on the agenda.

It is generally not advisable for a single chapter leader to create agendas in isolation.

Some items on the agenda should begin with an action word (verb). These items should frame the expectations of attendees.

Assigning Key Meeting Roles
Most meetings need people playing four roles. Make sure these roles are assigned prior to a meeting:

- Leader convenes the meeting.
- Facilitator keeps discussion and decision-making process moving along.
- Recorder takes notes on paper, computer or on whiteboards.
- Timekeeper reminds the leader when time is almost up for a given item.

The leader convenes the meeting and takes responsibility for communication before and after. The leader may lead the discussion on all items or may ask others, including a facilitator, to lead all or parts of the meeting. This enables the leader to be a full participant in discussions.
The facilitator keeps the discussion and decision-making process moving along. The facilitator takes responsibility for the process but should not be involved in the content of the meeting. A facilitator is especially useful if the leader holds a very strong opinion on an agenda item. Having a facilitator enables the leader to be a full participant.

The recorder takes notes on paper, computer or on whiteboards. Meeting notes should be distributed as soon after the meeting as possible. The longer the lag, the less confidence the members have that their investment will result in action. For groups that meet regularly, the recorder is responsible for keeping previous meeting notes and agendas in one place where they can be referenced later, such as through a shared network drive or a notebook.

The timekeeper reminds the leader when time is almost up for a given item. A stopwatch or small clock is invaluable.

Creating a Visual Record
A visual record is an outline of key discussion items or alternative solutions which are placed on a shared document, flip chart, whiteboard or projected from a laptop for all to see. This visual representation helps people remember what has been posed and enables the group’s attention to focus on the items, rather than the person who suggested them. The visual record also discourages rehashing.

Here are some guidelines for using a flipchart or whiteboard to create visual records:
- Write big so that people can see it.
- Use dark colors like black or deep purple.
- Use markers that do not have a headache-producing odor.
- If people want to add a thought or example to an item and there is no room left, use a 3x5 self-stick note to capture the thought. Stick the note near the item.

Here are some guidelines for using a laptop and projector:
- Use a large font, preferably 18 points or higher.
- Adjust the lights and shades in the room to be sure that people can see it.
- Email copies of the records for people to have to review after the meeting.

Allotting Time for Topics
The meeting agenda should allot specific amounts of time for each item. If no times are specified, then everything on the agenda appears to be of equal importance. An unfortunate consequence is that too much time could be spent on the least important items.

Allot time for meeting topics based on their significance. Agenda items are like work in general—they will expand to fill whatever time is available.

To allot time most productively consider some of these strategies:
- Identify the number of people likely to attend. Then estimate the total amount of time required if everyone made one 30-second comment. This is the minimal amount of time you'll need.
- For each agenda item identify activities that will be required (presentations, review of documents, voting, prioritizing, etc.) and factor these into the total time needed for each item.
Consider the likely level of agreement for each agenda item. Where there is wide disagreement over certain topics, allow more time for these items.

Continue referring to the agenda and the time you have to discuss each item. Instruct attendees that these structures are put in place to respect their time.

Tip: Going around the table and inviting everyone to make an announcement is generally not a wise use of collective time. Participants may feel pressure to say something regardless of how important the item may be. Start the meeting with introductions or an icebreaker and have a casual conversation before or after the meeting to keep things social, but timely.

Getting Started on Time
Get into the practice of consistently starting each meeting on time. Leaders who wait to start meetings until more people arrive usually end up wasting a lot of professional time which adds up over the course of a year. It may require a change in the culture, but once people know that you start your meetings on time, they will learn to arrive on time.

Here are a few strategies that can help get your meeting started on time.
- Set a stopwatch to go off at the time the meeting is to start. This reminds everyone of the time.
- If the committee or group is not accustomed to starting on time, give fair warning ahead that you will start the meeting on time by either including it on the agenda or as a separate communication.
- Some groups schedule 15 minutes of time to socialize before the start of the meeting.

Ending on Time
Well planned and organized meetings normally end on time. However, if most of your meetings tend to run late, it's important to understand why. Some reasons might include:
- Meeting time has not been managed well throughout the meeting.
- Priority items were not dealt with first.
- The group went off-topic too many times.
- Meeting planners underestimated deliberation time required.
- Too many items were planned for the time available.
- The group has a history of going beyond its stated adjournment time.

Here are a few strategies that can help you end your meetings on time.
- Start the meeting on time. It's a lot easier to end on time if the meeting begins on time.
- Appoint a timekeeper to help you. The timekeeper gives continuous feedback to the group regarding the use of allotted time for each agenda item.
- If you are chair and wish to extend a meeting another 15 minutes to half an hour, ask the committee or group if they are willing to remain to finish the task at hand.
- In planning a meeting, make sure it has a stated end time. If attending a meeting that does not state an adjournment time, bring it to the leader's attention at the beginning of the meeting.
Agree on Ground Rules (and Revisit Them at the Start of Each Year)

Ground rules are agreements about expected behavior in meetings. The purpose of ground rules is to make explicit the group's norms about how members will interact, thus preventing or reducing misunderstandings and disagreements. Ground rules may differ greatly by committee or group, but they should always contribute to the group's ability to work together effectively.

Each group creates its own ground rules. All groups violate their own ground rules sometimes, and it is the chair's or facilitator's role to remind the group. Keep the ground rules close by. They should be reviewed and updated periodically.

Some common ground rules are:
- Turn off cell phones.
- Treat other members with respect, even in the face of disagreement.
- Bring a handout or create a slideshow when you are making a proposal for action.
- Arrive on time.

Another type of ground rule is agreeing in advance how decisions will be made. The most common ways that decisions are made in committees or groups are through majority rule (voting) or consensus. Both methods have their strengths and limitations. Voting is expeditious, although a simple majority may not bode well for implementation. A consensus may take longer to achieve but can create high levels of support for implementation. A group is considered here to have reached consensus when it finally agrees on a choice and each group member can say:
  - "I believe that others understand my point of view."
  - "I believe I understand others' points of view."
  - "Whether or not I prefer this decision, I support it (and will not undermine it) because it was arrived at openly and fairly and is the best solution for this committee or group at this time."

It is important to have agreement within any committee or working group on how decisions will be made whether by voting or consensus or some combination. This can avoid disputes later about whether important decisions were made properly.
Responsibilities of the Meeting Chair (Chapter President)

Before the Meeting
- Meet separately with chapter officers to determine the purpose and goals for this meeting.
- Create the agenda, including a demonstration, scholarship report or other social start.
- Schedule the meeting and share the time and date with the state office and members via email and social media. You can create a Facebook event page for your meeting, especially if you want to encourage non-members to attend.
- Ensure that the agenda is posted and sent out at least one week prior to the meeting.
  - Email all members and make phone calls, if necessary
  - Post the meeting reminder on Facebook and/or Instagram.
  - Send the reminder to the state office to be uploaded to your chapter webpage.
- Ensure that appropriate supporting information is circulated in time to be useful.
- Reserve a room and plan refreshments, should you wish to provide food and drinks.
- Arrange for a secretary/recorder to take minutes.
- Prepare all needed supplies (cameras, flip chart, markers, laptops, etc.)

During the Meeting
- Start meeting on time and make appropriate introductions.
- Track attendance of members and non-members.
- Review the agenda.
- Keep discussion focused on agenda items.
- Ask attendees if there are any mentoring needs or opportunities.
- Encourage full participation.
- Help group come to decisions (note: only members should vote on chapter business).
- Summarize decisions made by the group.
- Agree on action plan: point person and what needs to be done by whom by when.
- Draft agenda for and set a date/time for next meeting(s).
- Evaluate meeting (“Was this a useful topic?” “Would you like to have more such presentations?”)

After the Meeting
- Ensure that minutes are produced and promptly distributed, including to guests and the state office.
- Ensure that agenda, minutes and meeting and supporting documents are kept together and archived as required (this is most successfully accomplished in shared digital systems like Google Drive or Dropbox).
- Check to ensure that action is taking place as agreed, and follow up prior to next meeting.

Avoiding Common Meeting Problems
Last Revised February 2016

Finishing on Time
Meetings often run over the allotted time and consequently many agenda items don’t get adequate coverage or don’t even get covered at all. There are various reasons why meetings run over time some of which include:

- The meeting did not start on time in the first place and thus the group got behind schedule.
- The sequence of topics was not based on their significance thus too much time may have been spent initially on items of lesser importance.
- Meeting time was not managed well.
- Too much was planned for time available.

There are several strategies you can use to ensure that your meetings end on time:
- Designate a timekeeper to watch the clock and let participants know when time for an item is almost up, and then when it is really up.
- Place topics that require more discussion at the very beginning of the agenda.
- Start your meeting promptly on time.

Can’t Make Decisions
Some meetings seem to drag on as group members struggle to reach consensus and make decisions. The responsibility for coming to decisions rests squarely with the chair or leader (usually the President). Some common reasons why groups seem unable to make decisions include:

- Goals and outcomes are not made explicit for the discussion topic.
- Certain participants get sidetracked on peripheral issues.
- The consequences of not deciding are negligible or not understood by participants.
- Philosophical issues divide people.

There are several things you can do as a leader to help a group reach consensus and make decisions more efficiently. These include:

- Create expectations with actionable agenda items that clearly convey what is anticipated.
- When participants seem totally blocked and unable to break through an impasse, go back to the initial question or purpose of the activity and restate it.
- Ask which alternatives are supported by data.

Dominant Participants
Dominant participants often stifle collaborative problem solving and creativity among participants. But they often have good ideas that deserve consideration. Good leaders need to direct the energies of dominant participants in a nonthreatening way so that others have opportunities to contribute.

- Firmly state the question you are hoping to answer or the problem you are hoping to solve.
- Thank the dominant participants for their feedback and let them know that to make a decision, you will need to hear from other participants.
- Let the dominant person know you appreciate the feedback and restate their points.
- State the name of another attendee, recap the dominant participant’s points again, giving credit to that individual.
- Then ask for the other attendee’s opinion.
Silent Participants
People are quiet in meetings for different reasons. Some people are reticent by nature. Others are fearful that their opinions will be ridiculed and dismissed. Some are not comfortable speaking if they don’t know for sure who everyone is. Some don’t care. It’s your role as a group leader to try to engage everyone.

Some strategies the group leader or chair can take to engage everyone include:
- Ask people to create name tents for themselves (writing on front and back). We often assume that everyone knows who the other members or participants are, and it is often not so.
- Give people five minutes to write down their ideas or thoughts in a silent brainstorm before opening the general discussion.
- Break into small groups or pairs to discuss aspects of an issue before opening the general discussion. Be sure the questions or issues to be discussed are clear. Ask the groups what they came up with.
- For perennially quiet participants, the chair may discuss with the individual in private the importance of everyone’s ideas, saying something like, “I noticed you haven’t said much about the move, but I’d like to hear what you think about it.” Then encourage the person to share those thoughts within the meeting. You can prompt a response at the next meeting by saying, “Leslie has an interesting idea for expediting the move. Will you explain it, Leslie?” This may “break the sound barrier” for certain shy people.
- By visually recording all the ideas in a brainstorming session, the chair or facilitator emphasizes the importance of everyone’s contributions and helps stimulate participation. Holding critiquing of the brainstormed ideas until all have been listed can also be a powerful motivator for reticent participants.

Rehashing Decisions
Issues that were discussed and decided on in previous meetings sometimes re-emerge to be rehashed. This can be very discouraging to the group or committee. Some reasons for this include:
- People were not aware that a conclusive decision was definitively made regarding a specific issue.
- People recall that a decision was made, but the record of it is not available.
- Dominant participants pushed through a decision in a previous meeting and silent participants begin to speak up afterwards.

A group leader can do several things to prevent and/or derail the rehashing of previous decisions.
- Review the minutes of the last meeting at the start of each meeting.
- Refer back to these decisions and let the member(s) know that there are many new items to cover on the current meeting’s agenda.
- If there is pushback, inform the member(s) that the chapter leaders meet before each meeting to identify priorities for the chapter. If they would like to be a part of that discussion in the future, encourage them to run for an office next year.
Lack of Follow-through on Tasks

The effectiveness of a meeting can be measured in terms of its outcomes. If people don't follow-through on action plans, tasks and decisions after the meeting ends, then one needs to question the value of having a meeting in the first place. The leader is the single most important factor in follow-through. It's your job to be clear at the end of every meeting who is responsible for what and by when.

A leader can use these tools and techniques to achieve more effective follow-through after a meeting:

- Written action plans. People usually need to be able to see in writing what action is required of them and by when. Include these action steps at the end of each set of minutes your chapter records.
- Point persons ensure that a goal is moving forward.
- Check-in meetings or phone status-check meetings should be set up when the action is first being planned.
- There is nothing like a deadline to stimulate action!
Ideas

- Offer food & let members know in advance that they can expect to eat/snack.
- Use your agendas to highlight past successes and decisions (this can cut down on rehashing topics that are closed for discussion).
- Allow members to introduce themselves at the start of each meeting.
  - Ask members to share their names, media, etc. to foster connections/networking.
  - Recognize any visitors/new members and encourage other members to talk to them after the meeting.
- Don’t assume that new members know what you are talking about.
  - Introduce each topic succinctly, providing background information allowing all attendees to get up to speed.
  - Avoid using acronyms or jargon – if you do, explain what the terms mean.
  - If you are talking about a person, invite him/her to stand or raise their hand at the meeting, allowing new members and visitors to put a face with a name.
- Make the meetings content-heavy and discuss little chapter business.
  - Accomplish this by discussing critical issues with chapter leaders before each meeting.
  - Set the agenda and send it out a week in advance so members know what is to be discussed.
  - Prepare topics that interest your members and/or ask guest speakers to give presentations.
- Show & Tell/Pop-up Gallery
  - At certain meetings, invite all attendees to bring recent work.
  - These items can be placed on a table for members to view and ask questions of each other’s work – or –
  - Schedule a time for artistic critiques on the agenda (make sure you have the artist’s permission to critique his/her work before beginning)
    - Remember to offer constructive criticism and be mindful of feelings.
